SERVICES AT MOUNDSVILLE CAMP GROUNDS

Drew a Large Crowd, Including Large Delegations From Wheeling—The Services

WERE OF GREATEST INTEREST

And Included Sermons by Dr. Yocum, Rev. W. B. King and Other Ministers on the Grounds.

Yesterday morning at the Moundsville camp meeting, an early service, was held which was of great profit to the participants. At 9 o'clock a regular old-fashioned class meeting was conducted in front of the platform. At 10:30 Dr. Yocum preached from a portion of the ninth chapter of Luke, commencing with the twenty-eighth verse. His theme was "The Transfiguration." He began his sermon by saying that we do not speak often enough concerning the victorious phases in the life of the man of sorrows; the manifestations of his triumphs and his glories. This is one of them, and as we study this incident in his life let us pray that we may see new beauties in that greatest of all lives. Every incident of his life has its meaning. He was very lonely, as a sinless life in the midst of all the sin of the world would naturally be. He went away up to the summit of the mountain to pray. He went there to be alone with God. As he prayed the manner of his countenance was changed and he was transfigured before them. It was the divine nature showing itself. It was to teach the disciples the glory that was to be revealed in him in whom they had been so disappointed when they found he was not to set up a temporal kingdom. It was also to mitigate the sorrow that had filled their minds since he had announced to them that he was to suffer and to die.

A large audience was present, and nothing was heard but words of praise concerning the sermon.

At 2 o'clock there was Sunday school. Rev. George S. Fuller, superintendent. This was largely attended. Dr. States of Moundsville, reviewed the lesson. Miss Mary Scott gave a talk to the little folks, which was greatly enjoyed by them. Dr. Yocum spoke a few words at the close. The entire exercise was greatly enjoyed by the large audience.

Afternoon Services.

At 3 o'clock the exercises were as follows: After singing by the choir and prayer by Rev. G. D. Smith, a quartette consisting of Mrs. A. R. Warden, Miss Anne Peley, Mr. S. H. Woodruff and W. S. Hammond, sang "By and By" with good effect. Mrs. Fred Frazier sang, "My Redeemer," after which Rev. W. B. King preached from the words, "For I am persuaded that neither death nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature shall be able to separate us from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord."

The sermon was a very able one and most eloquently delivered. Some of the points made were as follows: Paul had not only an experience, but a great Christian experience. It takes a colossal experience to say the words of the text. Paul had it. His was an experience up to date, as high as the stars, as far-reaching as eternity itself. If a man has the blues and will read Paul's epistle, it will cure him for at least a month, and if he continues to read them it will cure him forever. We can have this great experience. If God could keep Paul, he can keep us. There is a great Christian experience in store for each of us. It is a crime before God for us not to have it. We can get it by the reading of the word, and studying men, but above all by taking hold of the promises by faith.

The largest audience of the day listened to the sermon with intense interest.

At night Rev. Yocum preached again to a very large audience and at the close an altar service was held. Many surrounded the altar and a regular old time camp meeting service was held. The preachers present were Dr. E. H. Yocum, C. H. Laken, C. C. Bruner, G. D. Smith, U. S. G. Carroll, W. B. King, C. B. Graham, Spencer King, J. D. Smith, D. W. Rubie, and George S. Fuller.

Notes and Personals.

On Saturday, Rev. C. B. Graham, of North Street church, Wheeling, preached at 10:30 from the words, "Come Up Hither." Rev. A. I. It was an able sermon. He showed conclusively that all the great events of history as to discovery, invention, or advancement of any kind was but the working out of the eternal plans of the Creator. As the need came the Almighty caused the very thing to happen that the world needed. Steam, the telegraph, the telephone, the harnessing of electricity to do man's bidding, all came just as the needs of mankind demanded them and we can well exclaim with Morse in his message sent by telegraph, "See what God hath wrought."

The sermon was heard by a very appreciative audience.

At night a very earnest and thoughtful sermon was preached by Dr. E. H. Yocum from the words: "If I but touch the hem of His garment I shall be made whole." At the close an altar service was held.

The lunch stand under the supervision of J. E. Schellhase, did a thriving business.

While the crowd was not as large as has been seen in other days, still toward evening it looked like old times.

The best of order prevailed during the entire day, and every one seemed to enjoy the shade. The weather during the entire day was extremely warm.

A runaway horse with a buggy attached, resulting in the upsetting of the vehicle, caused quite an excitement for a short time, but no serious damage resulted.

The gate receipts yesterday were fully up to what they have been for the past few years on the first Sunday of the meeting. Next Sunday will no doubt be much greater.

Next Saturday being Epworth League Day, a large crowd is expected, and the majority of them will remain over Sunday.

WILL TAKE OFF SLEEPERS

From Atlantic City Excursion Trains Next Season Will the Trunk Line Roads—The Excursions Overburden the Roads.

It is learned that the Trunk Line railroads (including the Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio) will take off sleepers from all Atlantic City excursion trains next season. The argument is made that the special excursions to the seashore, on account of the low rates and Pullman sleeper service, attract a class of travelers who usually "pass up" excursion trains and travel on regular trains, paying full tourist fare. The original object of these excursions was to attract people who seldom or never patronize the sleeper, and could be induced to go to the seashore only through the medium of a cheap short-limit excursion. This class of travelers, it is argued by the railroad officials, can still be attracted without the sleeper service, while the people who desire to travel in style can afford to pay the higher fare.

Speaking of this move on the part of the Joint Traffic Association, a well known Wheeling railroad official said to an Intelligencer man that the great popularity of the Atlantic City excursions had in a way brought about the banishment of the sleeper. Some of the roads, notably the Pennsylvania, have run Atlantic City specials in sections so numerous that they brought about a practical suspension of all other traffic on the line until they were out of the way. This was an undesirable situation, and was largely responsible for the decision to banish the sleeper and consequently decrease the popularity of the excursion.

In some quarters it is believed that this determination upon the part of the Trunk Line railroads will have the effect in some territories of diverting tourist travel from the seashore to the Great Lakes resorts, especially in the Wheeling district, where there are no less than three direct lines to Cleveland, all of which are bidding for lake travel every summer in a liberal manner. The summer tourist travel to the lakes has been increasing rapidly for several seasons, and the Atlantic City embargo on sleepers will doubtless bring about a still heavier increase next season.

A FLOATER FOUND.

Body of a Man Found in the River at McMechen.

About 11:30 Saturday morning Grant Kellar and James Keffer found the body of a dead man on their trout line at McMechen. The remains were clothed only in an undershirt and blood was oozing from the mouth. The body evidently had not been in the water very long. Coroner Riddle was notified and proceeded to make an examination.

It is believed the man is Emil Mettler, of Baltimore. It is probable that he was drowned at Benwood, because a suit of clothes, a satchel and other articles of wearing apparel were found below the ferry landing earlier in the day. The clothes consisted of a soft brown hat, coat, vest and trousers of black cloth, a pair of socks, a pair of shoes, an undershirt and an overshirt. The police began an investigation as soon as they heard of the affair and several who saw the body identified it as that of a man they had seen walking along the bank Friday. He would pause in his walks and gaze intently at the water and in other ways acted strangely.

Two letters were found in his coat pockets, both of them written from Baltimore. They bore the signature of Albert Nagel. The first one was addressed to "Frlina Miller," and the other contained a brief note about a sister being homesick and asked the recipient to come east.

Coroner Riddle held an inquest and rendered a verdict according to the facts. It is not known whether the drowning was intentional or accidental, but the evidence points strongly to the former theory.

Each Year in a Quiet Way, Without the Blare of Trumpets or Great Ostentation.

STATE FAIR AND ADVERTISER

Of the City That Has Been Without a Rival—Great Improvements Made This Year.

The proposed organization of a board of trade, whose purpose primarily will be to bring Wheeling and her advantages as an industrial center prominently into the eye of the country, has attracted general attention, and without a doubt the board will be organized in a short time and before the twentieth century is ushered in will be doing its mighty work for the Greater Wheeling.

Possibly it does not occur to the average Wheeling man that for twenty years an association of Wheeling men have been running an institution that has been without a peer as an advertiser of their city once every year. Reference is made to the West Virginia State Fair Association. Messrs. Reymann, Hook, Scott, Brady, Mendel, Schwartzfeger, Holliday and the other stockholders of this association invested without the idea of making anything out of the venture. Their only object was to maintain an annual exhibition that would attract to their city great crowds from the tri-state radius. They have given liberally in time and money and talent, and while there were times when direct pecuniary loss stared them in the face, they have had the courage to continue, with the result that more auspicious weather at ensuing fairs brought larger crowds, and thus they have been enabled to "play even." Wheeling business men and citizens generally ought to feel distinctly grateful to the state fair people for the enterprise they have displayed, and for them it may be said that the association has never had cause to complain of the home patronage.

This year the fair association has spread out in all directions. Each department has been made more attractive, new departments have been added, more expensive special attractions have been secured, and last but far from least the association has gone to great expense in preparing for the "night sessions" that have been demanded by its patrons, especially those at home who have not been enabled to see the fair before.

The "night session" is really an enlargement of the street fair made so popular by the Elks during the past two years, and one of which Wheeling had last year through the grace of Wheeling lodge No. 23. To put the "night session" idea into effect the association had to go to great expense in putting in an elaborate lighting plant. The promenade had to be lighted with 1,200 vari-colored incandescent lamps; the German Village required several are lamps and hundreds of incandescents; six are lamps were required in front of the grand stand through which to witness the finishes of the hippodrome races that are to be put on, and two great 10,000 candle-power search lights are needed to follow the races around the track. Possibly three or four of these search lights will be required; this will be determined at the public test of the lightning arrangements, which will occur one evening the latter part of the present week, and to which the people of Wheeling and surrounding towns are cordially invited. It was the intention to have this test take place this evening, but the electrical contractor was unable to finish the work in time. There will be no admission fee to the grounds when the test is made.

The association now has several hustlers on the road in the interest of the fair. They are visiting the fairs now in progress in Ohio, western Pennsylvania and New York, Ohio and Indiana, for the purpose of securing speed and other entries. Secretary Hook has received encouraging reports from his emissaries, and it is assured that the speed entries will be more numerous and of higher class than ever before.
